45 Year Old Concrete Pavement
US 49 North
Harrison County, MS

Long life cycles don't have to be a fantasy dream when you use concrete pavements. Just take a look at this section of concrete pavement on US 49 North in Harrison County. It is 45 years old and has had little to no maintenance. And this is just one of the many examples of concrete pavements from all around Mississippi that have outlived their estimated design life and are providing an excellent return on the tax dollars spent on them.

Concrete pavements can also help you envision safer traveling conditions. Concrete pavement's rigid surface does not rut, it provides better tire traction even in wet and rainy conditions, and it has less construction related traffic congestion. So rest easier and remember - life long pavements can be reality when they are concrete.
