CELEBRATE
the good things
in life

On July 4th, we celebrate our wonderful country and how lucky we are to live here. It just seems natural to take a few minutes to think about and celebrate some of the other good things in life - like spending time with a friend, watching the sunrise, sleeping in, hearing your favorite song, or concrete's exceptional durability. Mississippi has hundreds of sections of concrete pavements that have outlived their design life, and just seem to keep going on and on and on - providing more value for the money spent.

So next time you see a stretch of pavement like that on US 90 in Hancock County - take a few minutes to truly appreciate the beauty and durability of concrete. It's definitely worth celebrating.
